All awardees and their immediate family members are invited to the Awardee/Sponsor VIP party prior to the main event on January 16th and are encouraged to attend. This event allows recipients to meet the benefactors of the monetary awards, members of the Celebration of Women & Their Music committee, and Celebration musicians.

Some of the 2021 awardees will be invited to perform or display their work at the Main Event on Saturday January 16th. All awardees will be presented with their awards onstage at the event. All awardees are encouraged to attend; you and two guests will have seats at the show. If you do not win an award this year, and you are not a graduating senior, you may apply next year.

About the Celebration of Women & Their Music

The Celebration of Women & Their Music was founded in 1998 by Deborah J. Jenkins, Fargo, renowned blues singer, chef, and caterer. Our mission is to recognize artistic passion in women and create opportunities for emerging and established artists by opening avenues for networking, mentoring, support and promotion of their individual talents.

Over the years the show has featured local, regional and nationally recognized women performing a variety of musical genres from popular to classical. Each year brings newcomers to the stage as well as returning favorites from previous years in a celebration of the talent and artistic camaraderie of women in the Fargo-Moorhead region.
